

A technical drawing of a mechanical assembly, likely a pump or motor, shown in a side view. The drawing is a line drawing with a horizontal centerline and a vertical centerline. The assembly consists of a large cylindrical body on the left, a central shaft or coupling, and a smaller cylindrical body on the right. The rightmost part has a flange with a central bolt. The drawing is oriented horizontally, with the centerline running vertically through the middle of the assembly.

