

A technical line drawing of a mechanical assembly, likely a pump or motor, shown from a side profile. The assembly consists of a large cylindrical component on the left, connected to a smaller, more complex component on the right. The entire unit is mounted on a base. A vertical dashed line indicates the centerline of the assembly.

